Class of 1970

Occupying their own cafeteria in September marked the beginning of new privileges, new experiences, new worries, and new anticipations for the Class of 1970. "Kazoo to you," shouted the senior Kazoo Band from the Senior section on the 50 yard line. Tan Kay Chee and Mag Gibert from Singapore and Spain added an international flavor to the class. The new class sponsor, Mrs. Sue Jones and President Doc Garnett coordinated class efforts into a Gubernatorial election assembly, banquet, assembly, Grub Day, and luncheon. Graduation launched the Class of 1970 into the future.

Besides teaching, Mrs. Jones sponsors the Senior Class.

Self-satisfaction is one of Doc Garnett's rewards as Senior Class President.

Jo Scher studies parliamentary proceedings.

Thoughts on management of class treasury enter Richard Campbell's mind.

Patiently listening to class discussion, Lynn Cole, secretary, takes notes.

Reviewing annuals, reporters Nancy LaPrade and historian Marcia Gilbert collaborate on the class scrapbook and history.

Mat Hawley directs Gubernatorial Assembly.

Excited Seniors order announcements.

achieve success

Whether as the winner with a sour cream noodle bake, the SCA president, the president of NHS, a national merit scholarship finalist, the president of the band, or the center on the football team, these six Seniors proved their talents and abilities in each area that they asserted themselves. Aside from maintaining a high academic standing, sports, the National Honor Society, Keyettes, the Key Club, Honorary French Society, Hi-Y, Mariner Band, and Student government suggested some of the activities in which Marcia Gilbert, Frank Seney, Cathy Ramsay, Joe Howe, Nancy LaPrade, and Roger Cawthon involved themselves. Their contributions to their class and in these activities brought them to the attention of the administration, and resulted in their being named.

Anchor climbing is just one of Frank Seney's many talents.

Conferring with Mrs. Passage, Joe Howe listens intently as she presents her views.

Walking over a moat of dry ice, Seniors enter the Prom by way of a drawbridge. Right: Cement benches around a misting pool inspire Johnny Orphanidys to take to the heights.

Temperatures soar as Seniors dance to the music of the Escorts. Right: Prom Court consisting of Debbie Ford and Ed Alexander, Wilburn Williamson and Kilmer Taylor surround the King and Queen.

“A Midsummer Night’s Dream” captures a lasting memory for graduating Seniors

Painted waterfalls and paper forests captured the atmosphere of “A Midsummer Night’s Dream.” An ivy covered castle, shrouded in moonlight and mist loomed behind the Seniors as they crossed the moat and stepped into the dreamland of their Prom. Juniors served the cake molded into the shape of a castle. Viewing the decorations, greeting friends, and dancing to the music of the “Escorts” made three hours seem to fly past. Chosen by the Seniors, Nelda McGehee and Neal Knemeyer reigned as King and Queen with their court, Debbie Ford and Ed Alexander, Kilmer Taylor and Wilburn Williamson for the remainder of the evening. Like magic the hour of twelve arrived and the Seniors slowly drifted out of the dream world of castles and mist, into the world of after-Prom parties.

Day for Seniors promotes frolic

Especially for Seniors, the "Laugh-In" style assembly abounded in cuts, sure to offend everyone. Roger Cawthon and Tray Eppes acting as master-of-ceremonies brought the jokes to the audience and introduced the guests. The skits involved the dirty old man, played by Mat Hawly, and the little old lady, played by Laura Cameron. King Quasi (Chris Potter in disguise) and singer Barbara Brower shared the guest spot in the assembly. Making its final appearance, the Senior Kazoo Band performed "Pomp and Circumstance" for the Seniors. Selecting a recipient for the "Fickle Finger of Fate Award" proved to be a difficult decision to make. The cafeteria's hamburgers tied for the honor with Mrs. Passage and Mr. McIntosh for making Seniors take exams. Thanks to the script writers and the organizers of the assembly, the Seniors enjoyed two hours of laughter. After a graduation practice and the luncheon, the Seniors deserted the school for an afternoon of parties and picnics at the beach.

Roger Cawthon tells Tray Eppes another joke.

"Summertime", a song by Barbara Brower highlights the Senior Assembly.

Rope trick is completed by Ree Stone as Jimmy Williams finishes his interview with Doug Hornsby. Below: Graduation practice follows the Senior Assembly.

"Fickle Finger of Fate Award" is presented to the cafeteria for their hamburgers. Left: King Quasi tells of his land as Roger Cawthon asks him a few questions.

Inner souls of Seniors emerge on Grub Day

"Seniors only" shouts the Class of 1970 as they dress grubby on April 30.

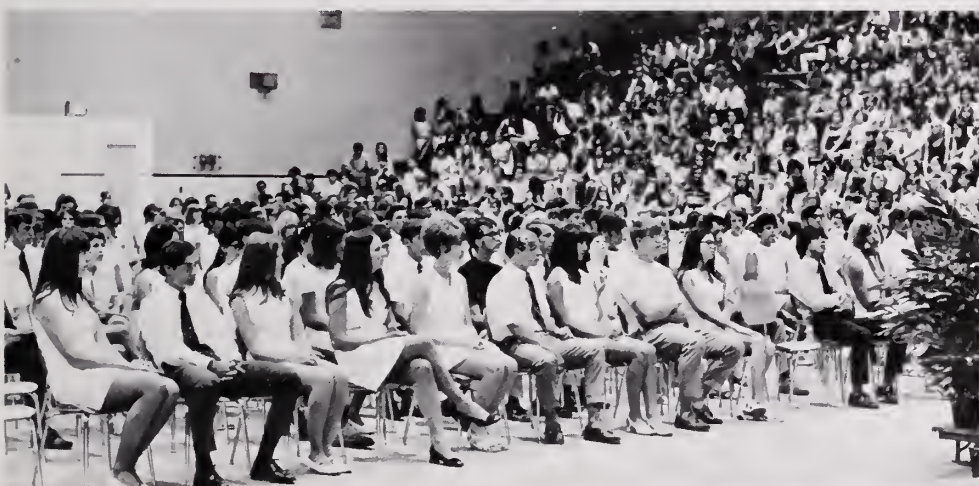

Bare feet and sloppy clothes appeared in the halls of Ferguson as the Seniors took advantage of their first official Grub Day and displayed the rejects from their wardrobes. Jean Johnson and Linda Bryant rode their bikes to school. Wilburn Williamson, clothed in knickers, received many curious stares from underclassmen and other Seniors. The gas mask that covered Kenny Wells' face kept students and teachers guessing about his identity all day. Mrs. Jones, the class sponsor, joined in the fun by wearing her Mariner 12 jersey and tennis shoes. The bizarre outfits demonstrated the ingenuity and planning of many. Grub Day proved to be a sloppy, comfortable, fun day for the whole Senior class.

Convocation marks beginning of end for Seniors

Stepping down from the bleachers, the Junior class filled the seats just vacated by the graduating Class of 1970. The student body had listened as Reverend Kennedy spoke to them, and many times their eyes roved to the Seniors seated below them on the gym floor. Then Doc Garnett formally allowed Phyllis Weinstock, next year's Senior Class president, to take over the assembly. The girls dressed in their spotless white dresses, the boys in their shirts and ties—the Class of 1970 solemnly marched out of the gym.

Beginning their reign as Seniors early, the Class of 1971 fill empty seats left by the exit of Class of 1970.

Emotion fills the audience as Mrs. Passage speaks to the Class of '70 for the last time. Above: Chairs provide special seats for the Seniors at Convocation.

Mr. Godwin and diplomas bring the year to a close for graduating class

Choked with emotion, Senior class president Doc Garnett delivers his farewell address to the class.

Happy shouts mingled with tears of sadness as the graduating class of 1970 marched out of the gym for the last time. Just a while before, these same students solemnly marched in under the proud eyes of their parents. Doc Garnett, conducting a Senior class function for the last time, spoke a few words to the class and introduced the guest speakers. Although they listened to the speeches of former Governor Mills Godwin, the valedictorian, and the salutatorian, most Seniors reminisced over the past five years of dances and noisy class assemblies. The long awaited moment arrived when each student heard his name announced and received his diploma from Mrs. Passage. Finally the blue and white gowns, occasionally adorned with gold stoles and tassels to indicate the honor students, rose as one mass for the last time and glided out into the daylight.

Junior Marshals Steve Sheppard and Linda Wagner lead Seniors out of the gym for the last time. Right: Anne Greenbaum, valedictorian, speaks on the changing society.

Speaking first, Salutatorian Cathy Ramsay advises Seniors on the many problems faced by parents. Right: Involvement dominates former Governor Godwin's speech as he challenges the graduating class.

Diplomas become a reality as Mrs. Passage hands one to each graduate.

Class of 1971

Sucker sales, car washes, and the sale of Christmas cards contributed money to the treasury of the Junior class. At the Ring Dance, students placed new rings on their fingers, a sign of their final year being close at hand. Preparations for the Prom progressed from collecting funds to finishing touches to the decorations as the Seniors entered the room.

Juniors met the strain of PSAT, National Merit, and SAT tests as they began the new experience of planning for college. All of these activities helped prepare them for their roll as Seniors.

Leadership is an important role of vice-president Winnie Sutton. Right: Pensively, Lou Ann Davis contemplates her duties as Junior class treasurer.

Cathy Ritko finds light-hearted moments as reporter. Right: President Phyllis Weinstock discusses plans with Mrs. Burt.

Class of 1972

Brief talks between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Crippen result in success.

Blue ribbon sales for football season headed the Sophomore class into their third year. Students wore these ribbons to display school spirit and to support the Mariner football team. Debbie Hixson and her slate of 10th grade officers led the class through a year of service and money-making projects. To unwind after first semester exams, these active students held a post-exam dance for all mentally-exhausted classmates. After the dance, all Mariners felt ready for a second semester.

Sponsoring the first dance of the fall, the Freshmen, under the leadership of class president Earl Gaughan, began their second year as Mariners. Beaten by the eighth grade, they still managed to make a valiant effort to earn the most money in the "Spirit Contest". Selling buttons during basketball season added to their treasury and to the school spirit of fellow students. Mrs. Benvie, the class sponsor, worked with Earl and the other officers to plan the activities for the year.

One of Earl Gaughan's duties as president is to preside over council meetings.

A lay up means two points for Jackie Ball.

Class of 1974

Thirty-two Mice entered the race for offices in their first class election in the fall. Rob Sedgwick won the hard-fought election. With the help of their advisor Mr. Taylor, also a new comer to Ferguson, he began his job as leader of the newest class. With elections completed, they began to plan their activities for the year. As money making projects, they sold megaphones and blue and white caps. Debby Berry took a place on the J. V. Majorette squad, the only eighth grader to do so. Beth Edwards represented her class as a princess on the Homecoming Court of 1969. This year began a new life for Ferguson's youngest Mariners.

The 1,919 return

Over-crowded classes and confused class schedules met students the first day back to school. Students had the opportunity to take new electives this year including remedial reading, and advanced placement English. Adding to the confusion of classes in new places and new schedules, students experienced disappointment of having the 1969 Mariner arrive late in the fall. Looking forward to the excitement of the year, Mariners began preparation for the fall activities.

Mrs. Passage visits Mrs. Anthony's study hall in the senior cafeteria.

Mrs. Smith holds her fourth period study hall in the auditorium.

Mass confusion is part of the happening when the bell rings to change class.

Twice a month, enthusiastic SCA President, Joe Howe, presides over SCA meetings in the auditorium.

Important student announcements are heard in the morning and afternoons.

Rushing through the lunch line, Senior Linda McCraw tries to beat the crowd of third lunch.

Confined areas, such as the back library rooms are used as classrooms.

Stacks of boxes flood the auditorium as annuals are given out.

Annual staff members distribute stacks of annuals as flocks of students wait to receive their copy of the 1969 Mariner.

Underclassmen pictures are taken in the opening weeks of school.

Patiently students wait their turn in the long absentee line outside the office.

Boisterous Juniors and Seniors yell for a victory over Hampton High School.

Arousing school spirit, the enthusiastic underclassmen present a skit.

Whomp 'em up side the head!

Masses rose with the first bars of the Mariner fight song or "Dixie" and another pep assembly began a demonstration of school spirit. Before the game with Newport News, concerned Mariners called on the "gods" of Olympus who kindly ascended to assist the football team by sending power and brains to needy players. "Mariner Day," created for the game against the arch rival Warwick, included students dressed in slacks as mariners, cheers in the cafeteria and halls, and the Senior boys led a cheer over the "PA" system. With the cheerleaders, the band, the Drill Team, the coaches and especially the enthusiastic student body, Ferguson carried spirit to the games.

Spirited cheerleaders wish the football team good luck against Warwick.

Campaign '69' gets under way as candidates for both the Republican and Democratic parties express their views.

Voicing his interest in the Republican ticket is Roger Cawthon.

Rehearsing a skit are interested student backers for the Democratic ticket.

Emphatic Republican speaker Richard Obenshain, voices his views on election frauds.

Unexpected speaker, Sargent Reynolds, voices his interest in the assembly.

Backing the Democratic ticket completely, is student speaker Peter Rudy.

Mock assembly elects governor

Boisterous demonstrations, cheering girls, a blaring band and many enthusiastic students lent excitement to Campaign '69, "Spirit of Virginia." The Senior class, under the direction of a steering committee composed of Senior class officers, worked with Mrs. Anthony on preparations for a meaningful gubernatorial "mock" election. Student speakers Roger Cawthon and Peter Rudy, and candidates, Richard Obenshain and Andrew Miller explained their platforms and aired their views on pertinent issues. Election results delighted Democrats who won by seven votes.

Brimming with excitement, Judy Brandt and John Newell enjoy the dance.

Reflecting memories of the wonderful evening, Sue Brooks and Dale Jackson leave the dance.

Tearful Judy Brandt is crowned Queen by Mrs. Passage.

The tears flood the Good Ship Lollipop

Girls cried, congratulations poured forth, and thirteen lucky people began to think about a very special weekend. With the excitement of having been chosen for the Homecoming court of 1969 by the students in their class came the starry eyes and happy day dreams. Thoughts of colorful gowns, a football game with Denbigh, half-time ceremonies, the dance—all the thrill of Homecoming—whirled through many heads. Then the weekend arrived with all of its excitement. Tan Kay Chee, foreign exchange student, entered into the activities as honorary princess with the same enthusiasm that all students had for the occasion. With the game won, happy Mariners danced through the remaining weekend. Homecoming evolved into a pleasant memory on the minds of many.

Anxiously the crowd watches as couple Vicki Granger and Wilburn Williamson arrive at the 1969 Homecoming dance in the cafeteria.

Boisterous cheers echo as Jackie Holcomb and Ricky Collins are introduced at the game. Left: Smiling, Anita Edge and Brent Hughs wait for the big news.

Anticipating the start of the second half of the game are Yvonne Nygard and Jack Cowardin.

Mariners win 15 to 14

Mariner coaches Carr, Keesecker, and Byrd, offer encouragement to the football team.

Spirit burned brightly as the most exciting event of the fall, Homecoming weekend, commenced with a huge bonfire Thursday evening after school. Friday afternoon's per assembly reflected the spirit and excitement that had been building up all week for the big game with Denbigh. Fans screamed with delight as the hard-working Mariner football team squeaked by with their first win of the season. The highlight of the evening arrived amid the sounds of the two bands and the routine of the Drill Team when Mrs. Passage crowned Miss Judy Brandt the Homecoming Queen for 1969. Charlie McClendon and the Magnificents provided the music as Ferguson Mariners danced away the last night of a perfect weekend.

Relaxing, Debbie Ford enjoys the music of Charlie McClendon and the Magnificents.

Greek drama is fall production

Trojan Women, the drama department's fall production, centered around the aftermath of the Trojan War. After the burning of the city, only the women whose families had been killed survived the long war, only to be taken captives. As the curtain opened the first night, Poseiden related the story of the Trojan War, Cassandra told Hecuba of the tragedy of being sold into slavery, and the chorus wept over the destruction of the city Troy.

Mary Lynn Topping assisted Miss Hoster in the direction of the production. Cheryl Vichness (Hecuba), Niva Shultz (Cassandra), Chris Madsen (Athena), and Tim Justice (Poseiden) gave life to the main characters and helped the audience to relive the historical events.

SCA sponsors 'Toys for Tots'

"Toys for Tots" collections and the Daily Press Christmas Fund Drive filled the last days before Christmas with activities. The band and choral groups performed two concerts the last day before vacation. Mr. Auby wore his stocking cap and Christmas bow-tie in his Humanities class. A few decorated doors, the Christmas trees in the cafeteria and office, and the arrival of Santa Claus at lunch proved that the Christmas spirit had invaded Ferguson.

Mr. Webb leads the Mariner band in some festive musical arrangements for the Christmas assembly.

Snow holds up the exam schedule

Students rush into the cafeteria during one of three exam breaks.

No sooner had the Mariners completed Monday's exams than the snow began to fall. Postponing the exams for two days gave students extra time to cram pages and pages of notes into their heads. Many seats remained empty because of colds and flu. Tired, anxious students crowded into three lunch periods as they attempted to get something to eat before their next exam. Finally, only the teachers remained to correct exams. Students went home to spend the weekend worrying about their outcome of the ordeal of the long exam week.

Snow and ice close the schools for two days during the exam period.

SCA makes $650 from Stunt Night

Musical acts prevailed in Stunt Night, the SCA's annual venture into the entertainment world. Before the large audience, a host of performers entertained, including the Shenandoah Ramblers, Barbara Brower, and the Pisces combo from Kecoughtan High School. Roger Cawthon, serving as MC, introduced the Keyettes who sang a song on air pollution. Stunt Night included so many acts that the show dispensed with an intermission. This year's Stunt Night proved a success with the audience and made a large profit for the SCA.

Student body elects independent Joe Ballantyne

Underclassmen assemble to listen to each candidate running for an SCA office.

Campaign managers for the students running for next year's SCA offices confidently introduced the presidents for their prospective tickets. As the student body listened closely, Mark Ailsworth of "The Ticket" and Rudd Simmons of "The New People" presented their running-mates and the tickets' platforms. Joe Ballantyne, the only independent candidate, spoke on the need for change and more student involvement. The results of the elections indicated that most Mariners desired more participation in the SCA. Independent candidate Joe Ballantyne, led the new slate of officers, consisting of people representing both tickets.

SCA officers begin a new year

Nancy LaPrade displays her DAR award. Below: Numerous athletic awards that are presented to students are displayed in the trophy case.

Recognition for talent, outstanding achievement, and good citizenship formed the major role of the annual Academic Awards Assembly, and offered an opportunity for the student body to match faces with all those names they had read about in the school newspaper or heard in the morning announcements.

In the assembly members of the faculty and administration and representatives of several clubs named students as recipients of awards in many areas. The art department honored the outstanding art student with an award for the first time. Miss Farrior presented it to Carolyn Hooper. Wayne Powell and Frank Seney received the Arion Award for their excellence in music. Mrs. Gaw honored Marcia Gilbert, Anne Greenbaum, Richard Campbell and David Noziglia as National Merit Scholarship finalists.

Following the awards presentation, Joe Howe and his SCA officers installed the SCA officers for the next year. As Joe Ballantyne's first official duty, he installed the class officers for 1970-71.

Budding actors spark One Acts

Productions from the Theater of the Absurd, the Children's Theater, and the more conventional theater provided the variety of drama types for the spring play.

Sara Frederick produced "The Tridget of Greva." Erving Binder and Billy Bright directed "The Steadfast Tin Soldier," a comedy of the children's theater. "The Hungerers," directed by Susan Harper, concerned an unpublished writer searching for success. These students learned the workings of the theater through experience.

Corby (Mark Tompkins) asks the bar hooter (Bill Humme) what he does with all of his whiskers.

The band elects Miss Ree Stone

Setting the atmosphere of the evening with "Music For a Summer Night", the Mariner Band opened its annual "Sweetheart Concert." Throughout the evening, the band continued to delight its audience with such pieces as "Symphonic Movement" and "Procession of Nobles." As the band played selections from "Man of La Mancha", conducted by guest David Soloman, Mr. Webb presented the three candidates for "Band Sweetheart", Anne Casson, Tan Kay Chee, and Ree Stone. With "Impossible Dream" as background music, Debbie Muir, Band Sweetheart of 1968-69, placed the crown on Ree Stone. The fiery strains of "Fandango" completed the concert and the band members and their guests retired to a reception to honor the new Band Sweetheart.

Reynolds urges staying within political framework

"Be aware, be free, be American", was the theme of the Citizenship Assembly. Roger Cawthon led the audience in the pledge of allegiance to the flag after which Lieutenant Governor J. Sargeant Reynolds spoke to the assembly. He assured the students that they have a right to dissent—to even become activists—and to work within the bounds of the democratic process.

Mrs. Passage addressed her students calling this occasion a significant one for the Seniors and reminding the audience that they had taken the oath of their own free will. A feeling of patriotism flowed throughout the audience as the assembly came to a close.

April showers bring May flowers and a new Miss Mariner for 1970

Stalling for more time, while votes are tallied is no problem for Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Willis.

Smiles danced on the five nervous but poised finalists, Sue Brooks, Linda Meyhew, Linda Harris, Diane Moore, and Barbara Brower, chosen by the judges of the pageant. Each now faced two questions, one serious, one humorous, which placed them in such situations as: "If you were walking down the hall and Wilburn Williamson grabbed you and kissed you, what would you do? While the judges made their decisions, Jimmy Lester sang "Miss Mariner," and Cathy Jaehnig, Miss Mariner of 1969, took her last walk. Finally Mr. Willis announced the finalists, Barbara Brower, Linda Harris, and Sue Brooks as Miss Mariner for 1970.

Contestants keep a cheerful smile through it all

Playing a selection from Polonaise by Chopin, is Carol Goode, a candidate from the Junior class. Below: Anxiously awaiting the news of the 10 semi-finalists are the 23 Miss Mariner contestants.

On Thursday, April 30, the twenty-three contestants presented their talent routines before the large audience and the four judges, Miss Catherine Dycus, Mr. Dick Guthrie, Miss Ettalea Kanter, and Mr. William Phillips. Before the activities of the second evening, the judges met each of the girls at a special tea.

On Friday night Mr. Tom Willis, former assistant principal announced Linda Harris, Diane Moore, Linda Meyhew, Sue Brooks, Carol Goode, Becky Dickinson, Cindy Lowe, Barbara Brower, Judy Brandt, and Candy Scott as ten finalists. After the brief intermission these ten girls presented a variety of talents. The selection of five finalists caused tension to mount as each person tried to decide who would win the 1970 Miss Mariner pageant.

Every member of annual staff had a hand in some phase of the planning. All of the careful planning and consideration contributed to an unforgettable Miss Mariner Pageant for 1970.

Will Purity Dean be rescued from the villainous

Purity Dean (Kris Madsen) decides the fate of the lost child that she has found.

A Gay Nineties melodrama invaded the auditorium this spring as the drama department produced "Pure as the Driven Snow" on stage. Set in a small town in northern Vermont, the play involved a young working girl, Purity Dean (Kris Madsen) who fell into the clutches of the villain, Mortimer Frothingham (Bruce Hake). The hero, Leander Longfellow (Jim Doggett) completed the triangle. Dave Sniff, Becky Blackman, Cheryl Vichness, and Linda Harris added to the cast of humorous characters. With the villainous actions of Mortimer Frothingham and the heroic efforts of Leander Longfellow, this play raised the question, "Will our manly bosomed hero rescue Purity?"

Mortimer Frothingham (Bruce Hake) is finally discovered as the ruthless villain by Jed Lunn (Tim Justice). Right: Staring in amazement at Purity Dean's (Kris Madsen) sudden illness are Leander Longfellow (Jim Doggett) and Jonathan Logan (Dave Sniff).

SCA officers work to alleviate student apathy

The SCA at Ferguson first entered the lives of students with the orientation program for the Eighth Grade. From then on, the SCA penetrated many phases of their school lives. In their homerooms students elected representatives to attend the Congress meetings and deal with the problems concerning the school. Student body president, Joe Howe, presided at each meeting and kept an eye on the actions of the SCA committees. With the help of the sponsor Miss Olney, the organization also dealt with such problems as the honor council and a point system to allow more students to hold offices. Above all, the SCA promoted cooperation with the administration and stimulated student involvement.

Committees encourage school spirit

Susie Peters takes Mariner spirit to the away games. Below: Susan Palmer, Cheryl Vichness and Linda Harris discuss plans for Stunt Night.

In coordinating the activities of the students, the SCA committees played a major role. Breaking up into temporary committees, the SCA planned such activities as Homecoming, the Participation Assembly, and Stunt Night. Standing committees took care of the activities assigned to them. House and Grounds sponsored the Clean-up Olympics in March in which all students helped clean up the grounds and school building. The Student Relations Committee proposed a day in which the honor system would be discussed in all English classes. A new committee this year, the Communications Committee planned the activities calendar and decorated the school bulletin boards.

worthy students

Voices quavered as the nervous officers spoke in the induction assembly for the National Honor Society. The audience quieted as Mrs. Passage read the names of the new inductees. Afterwards, the new members of NHS and their parents, who had kept the big secret, attended a tea in the library. NHS also involved a bookstore, a Christmas party at Mrs. Smith's house, and a picnic for past and present members during the summer.

Outstanding service as a member of the Mariner, Windjammer, or Helm staffs qualified a student for induction into Quill and Scroll, the literary honor society. Held in the spring, the ceremony involved the surprise announcements of new members by the three staff editors. A banquet, held in Yorktown, honored the inductees as they received their pins. Each member of the staffs looked forward to this exciting time when they might be chosen for this honor.

Keyette projects aid American Indians

Service to the school and community kept both the Key Club and Keyettes busy. In joint programs, the Key Club and Keyettes sold poppies for Veterans Day and helped the Jaycees raise money for retarded children on Apple Jelly Sunday. The two clubs competed together in the Clean-up Olympics with the Keyettes losing to the Key Club by half a point. Individually, the Key Club held meetings twice a month at which they listened to speakers. In addition to participating in community drives, booster badge sales, and school service projects, the Keyettes held a Celebrity Auction and sponsored a book drive to aid the American Indians. Both Key Clubbers and Keyettes found that serving the community and the school could be fun.

Hi-Y clubs serve

Making scrapbooks and coloring books for the children's ward at Riverside Hospital and caroling at Newport Nursing Home contributed to the services performed by the Tri-Hi-Y club. They participated in the District Conference in October, YMCA week in January, the Model General Assembly in April, held a bake sale, sponsored a bottle drive and gave a Virginia State flag to the school. Gay Wunder served as president through these activities.

Not only did the Jr. Tri-Hi-Y club members march for ALSAC, but they also worked every night at WGH radio station, answering phones for the charity drive. This club sponsored an orphan over seas, participated in the Clean Up Olympics, and held a bake sale. Along with Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y, this club worked diligently to serve the school and the community.

Bigger Mariner aims for National Rating

Senior editors, Carter Bryant, Susan Woltz, and Jean Johnson, compile all of the many Senior candid.

Excedrin headaches resulted from strain on brain power involved in creating a yearbook. Work on the Mariner began with ad sales in the late summer and early fall. The staff members spent sixth period learning to draw layouts on dummy sheets, looking for pictures for their sections, and tearing their hair out by the roots because of copy needed for certain pages. Many hours of hard work, a few tears and harsh words, but most of all loyalty went into the creation of the 1970 Mariner.

Mariner band displays skill

In the concerts, football halftime shows, and parades in which they performed, Mariner band members demonstrated the results of long, and often uncomfortable practices. Invitations to do half-time shows at the Apprentice School, the University of Virginia, and William and Mary College, besides those shows at Ferguson games, suggested the high quality of performance for which the band members strived.

The students represented their band in various music festivals and in honor bands on the Peninsula and in the state. Senior Leslie Kopp and Junior Linda Wagner brought honor to Ferguson when they won seats in the USA High School Band. Six members of the Regional band sat in first chair positions.

Cadets advance

Clunky shoes and stifling-hot uniforms comprise the dress of the Cadet Band as they paraded or participated in football shows. Marching through the Mariner's Museum on cold winter mornings or coming to early-band practice to prepare for a concert gave students a taste of what life would be like in the Mariner Band. The younger band not only added to the spirit of Ferguson, but also it worked to maintain the high standards of the Mariner Band at Ferguson.

Musical sounds attract students

Although Music Society offered music programs to all Mariners interested in music, band and choral students composed the majority of the members. Susie Peters, the president, and Mr. Forrest, the sponsor, made various plans for the meetings held once a month. Different musicians or groups from the Peninsula came to perform for the club. The Music Society also had the huge job of preparing the May music assembly. This club enjoyed music together.

Musical groups add excitement

Girls and boys choruses provided a chance for students to sing and learn music theory. These groups sang in the Christmas, Winter, and Spring Concerts. One performance resulted in a local TV appearance. Of the Ferguson representatives to Regional Chorus, four students performed at All-State.

New matching outfits added to the appearance of the eighteen Madrigals. All of the choruses entered in such activities as singing at the Patrick Henry Easter Party and presenting sacred concerts at area churches. People of the school and the community enjoyed their music.

International customs and promote friendship

Bringing a foreign exchange student to Ferguson required the cooperation of all the students. This year AFS welcomed two students, Tan Kay Chee of Singapore and Mag Gibert of Spain. These students joined other AFS members in sponsoring a folk concert, holding a student faculty basketball game, and selling bonds so that some foreign student might come to Ferguson next year.

Winning awards kept the Geography Club members busy. The Virginia Geographical Society named the club the Best in the State for the third time. Both clubs promoted friendship and understanding between countries.

Language clubs reflect different cultural aspects

At each Spanish Club meeting members attempted to prepare Spanish refreshments for the students. In the early winter the club held a party to welcome Mag Gibert, the exchange student from Spain. Selling school pins helped to finance the April banquet for all Newport News Spanish Clubs. Both the president, Sharon Diamond, and the club members considered this to be their most successful year.

French Club members worked to promote the culture by donating French novels and plays for the library. The club also held two dinners, one a buffet. In April they prepared a banquet for the French Consul at Norfolk, Mr. Pierre Schmidt, who spoke to the club.

This year the Latin Club spent a great deal of time improving its constitution. A pizza party at Shakey's with a modern theme and a Roman Banquet in the style of old Rome highlighted the year. The language clubs provided an opportunity for students to learn more about the particular countries' culture and customs.

Clubs encourage varied interests

Displays of art work brighten school halls.

Haunted House decorations kept the members of the Art Club working through October as they transformed an old house into a Halloween shack. They used the crafts that they had learned in class and in the club for other projects such as this. Students took field trips to museums and art shows on the Peninsula and in Richmond.

Campus Life promoted Christian ideals in students at Ferguson. This club was associated with the area Youth For Christ. The members got together for activities such as bowling parties.

Student teaching at the area elementary schools ended a prosperous year for FTA. Seniors had the opportunity of teaching in the schools for two days, while other members observed classes for one day. They planned visits to such colleges as the University of Virginia and Mary Washington College. Ferguson teachers spoke at different programs and the students held a tea for these teachers.

Whether a student found art interesting, looked forward to a career as a teacher, or if he wanted to get together with people that shared his beliefs, these clubs offered a place for him.

As the name suggested, a small group of students interested in medicine composed the Medical Careers club. During the year they learned about such places as the coronary care unit, the laboratory, and the mental health facilities of Riverside Hospital.

The theme of FHA, "Our Neighbors Near and Far", inspired an international dinner held in April. Throughout the year, this club promoted the ideals of a useful citizen and homemaker.

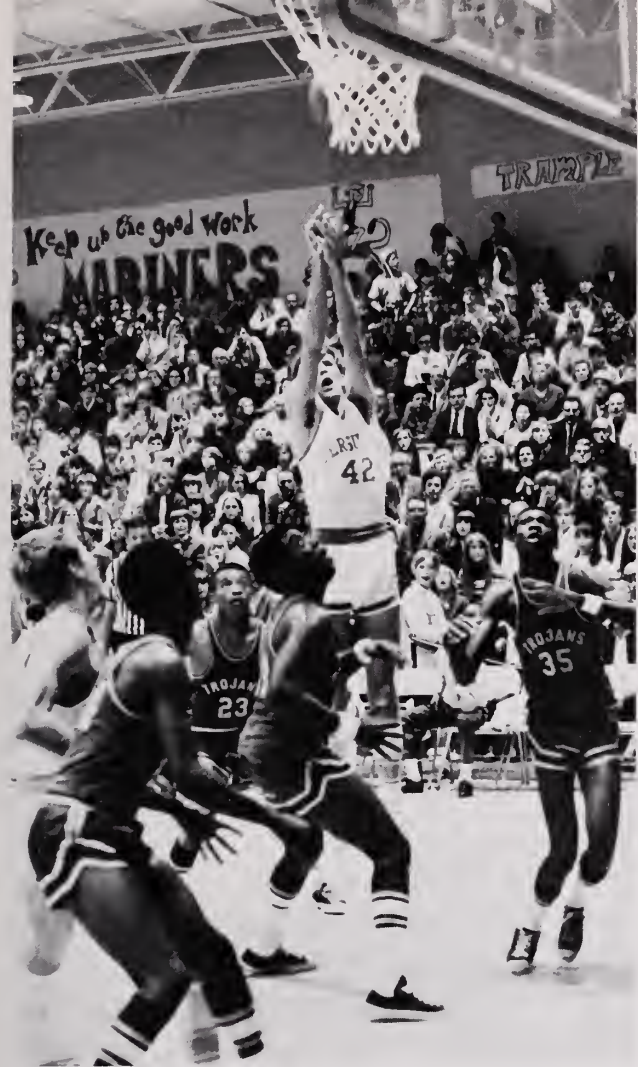

Banquet after banquet headlined the activities of the DE club to the point that Mr. Farmer became famous for preparing them. One of the many banquets honored the employers of the DE students. Marsha Bass held a position on the state board of DE clubs.

VOT placed its students at the school board office, in the hospital, and in other offices. Their outside activities consisted of a bake sale and selling suit bags with the DE club. These clubs offered students activities in their special area of interest: medicine, homemaking, and business.

Injuries hamper team, not spirit

Bruised bodies, broken legs, and sprained fingers plagued the Mariner football team from the hot summer practices to the frosts of November. Most of the season saw Ferguson go down time after time because of injuries inflicted during previous games or in practice. Old steadies such as John Lewis, Stocky Hobart, Bill Wright, and Doc Garnett failed to play on different occasions because of their injuries. The bitter taste of defeat never overshadowed the urge to win a game. Highlights of the season included victories over Denbigh, York, and Warwick. Fortunately, the team squeaked by with a 15-14 win over Denbigh, helping to preserve the happiness of Homecoming week end. Roger Cawthon kicked the extra point that secured the 7-6 victory over York. The abilities of Wilburn Williamson to be in the right place at the right time enabled the fighting Mariner team to end the season with the sweetest victory of the season over arch rival Warwick.

Winning seasons merit praise

First in the district meet, first in the regional meet, and third overall in the state indicated the high caliber of the Cross Country team. In breaking the state record, John Van Dyke became the state individual champion in Cross Country. Ferguson's indoor track team ended its season with the 60-58 defeat of the Newport News Typhoons. This defeat marked the first ever over the Typhoons. Tied with Denbigh for first place locally, FHS placed fourth in district for a good season.

Cagers end with best season yet

In a double overtime Wilburn Williamson's baskets put the Mariner team over Kecoughtan to lead Ferguson into its first district tournament play. Played in the Hampton Roads Coliseum, even though they lost to Hampton, Ferguson enjoyed its best season in years. Coach Larry Paffrath relied on the playing ability of Neal Knemeyer, Harry Knight, Johnny Jobe, Tommy Chapman, and Wilburn Williamson throughout the season. These players consistently led the team in scoring points against Kecoughtan, James Blair, Denbigh, and Warwick.

Eighth and ninth grade team ends perfect season

Undefeated, the eighth and ninth grade basketball team concluded its season by defeating Huntington. They made history as the first basketball team to go undefeated. Mr. Robert Sizemore coached the team and the leading scorers were Jack Hall and Rich Whitty.

Under the new coaching of Mr. Bill Taylor, the J.V. team also had a successful season. Mark Jobe, Barry Wynings, and Don Houston constantly led their team in scoring. In the end both teams had handed Ferguson a fine performance.

Young team promises bright future

Struggling to get free is Sophomore Steve Ruggles.

Spurring Mariners, Coach King advises.

Injuries and young, inexperienced members hindered the wrestling team's best efforts this year. Even though seven Mariners participated in the district meet held at Ferguson, only two boys, Gary Lichenstein and Steve Ruggles, survived to go to the regionals. They also participated in the state meet, although they did not place in their events. Coach King relied on the development of his underclassmen for future strength in his team. With hard work in mind, the future looked promising for the Ferguson wrestlers in years to come.

Tracksters aim for best season

With spring came the outdoor season for trackmen. Although the team dropped its first two meets to Hampton and Huntington, John Van Dyke helped Ferguson to capture first place against Pembroke by winning the mile and the 800. Victory over Warwick highlights baseball season

Even during pre-season practices, Dick Byers seems to enjoy being a Mariner catcher.

Rainy weather contributed to the cancellation of several varsity baseball games. Coach Byrd's team put this time to good use though, by slipping and sliding through practice on a muddy field. Still, the bad conditions hampered the spirits and the playing ability of the Mariner team and led to an overall poor season.

Spring brings Mariner teams out of doors

Intensive concentration reflects Coach Keesecker's concern in the outcome of the tennis match.

Winning appeared to be a habit each season with the tennis team. Entering the 1970 season, the district championship tennis team opened with 9-0 wins over Carver and Huntington. By the end of April, with the defeat of Kecoughtan the team recorded a 10-1 record. Brent Hughes and Ed Alexander confidently led their teammates to the district and hopefully on to the regional and state tournaments.

Although they practiced hard and played even harder, the J.V. baseball team could only record a fair season. Coach Sizemore pushed his team and Johnny Cope proved to be a promising player. Only better weather could help the team to play a better game.

Young FHS golf team strives for improved season

Practice on Ferguson's front lawn insures perfection for Mariner golfers.

Underclassmen dominated the golf team, leaving positions for only one senior and one junior. Mr. Paffrath's team ended its season in April with a poor record of only two wins. All of the driving and putting practice on the muddy field in back of the school seemed in vain. So the teammates looked to the future with some experienced players returning.

Girls demonstrated their talents in individual competition in gymnastics against other schools. The judges voted Mary Storms second best allround gymnast at the regional meet because of her scores in vaulting, free exercise, and on the uneven parallel bars.

Spirit stimulates GRA

Whether smacking a hockey ball toward the goal or bouncing a basketball, the girls played to win. They practiced hockey several times a week under Miss Williams' direction and often won.

Jo Scher led the girls' basketball team through another winning season as they met and beat such teams as Newport News High and Christopher Newport College.

Mrs. Fulton, the tennis coach, had the girls on the courts early in the spring. Anne Greenbaum held first place on the team. By winning their individual matches, the girls on the team defeated such teams as Warwick High and Hampton Institute. Volleyball, gymnastics, and softball completed the activities that kept FHS girls busy and in shape.

Rain and snow never dampen spirit

Cheerleaders recognize starting five at the District Tournament.

Freezing winds and drowning rains could not keep the cheerleaders from leading the student body in cheers at games and in pep assemblies. These girls represented Ferguson at home games and carried their spirit to all away games. Susan Runyan led the varsity squad through their activities of this year. In the spring both squads dined together at the Officers Club at Fort Eustis. In May they prepared for the next year with the cheering clinic. Later, Mariners selected girls to lead school spirit for the next year.

Selling sweat shirts and working at the concession stands during basketball games and wrestling matches, the Varsity Club earned $650 for the purchase of an audio-visual machine to aid coaching staffs.

Performing on the football field or at pep assemblies filled the calendar for the Drill Team. The Marinerettes even opened Stunt Night with their act. Nancy Fleetwood led the thirty-five girls in practices and performances. The Marinerettes also sold candy and sponsored a spirit contest to raise money for new band uniforms. Both clubs promoted school spirit.

Principals help F.H.S. masses

"Your attention please," blared the voice over the loud speaker and it proceeded to give the morning announcements. Aside from all the business they had of keeping the school running smoothly, one of the principals took time to read morning announcements to the students, speak in assemblies, or talk to individuals. Filling out and signing forms, informing students and teachers of school policies, and approving club projects filled a small portion of the time that they spent in conducting matters. Working as a team to make Ferguson the best school on the Peninsula, Mrs. Passage and her assistant principals, Mr. Begor and Mr. Newsome, merited the praise and full support of all Mariners.

Humanities and World Literature attract Mariners

Stimulating the creative imagination and introducing students to life through literature comprised the goals of three new English courses. Miss Murphy taught college preparatory Advanced Composition. Moved by music and works of art, students experienced creative writing. The seniors in Advanced Placement English gained college credit by passing the special spring exam. Humanities combined junior architecture and literature of America with music and art of the same periods. Mrs. Burt led the department in trying to develop a uniform term paper guide for all students to use. New approaches made English more meaningful.

Revolutions, riots, and elections stimulate Social Studies classes

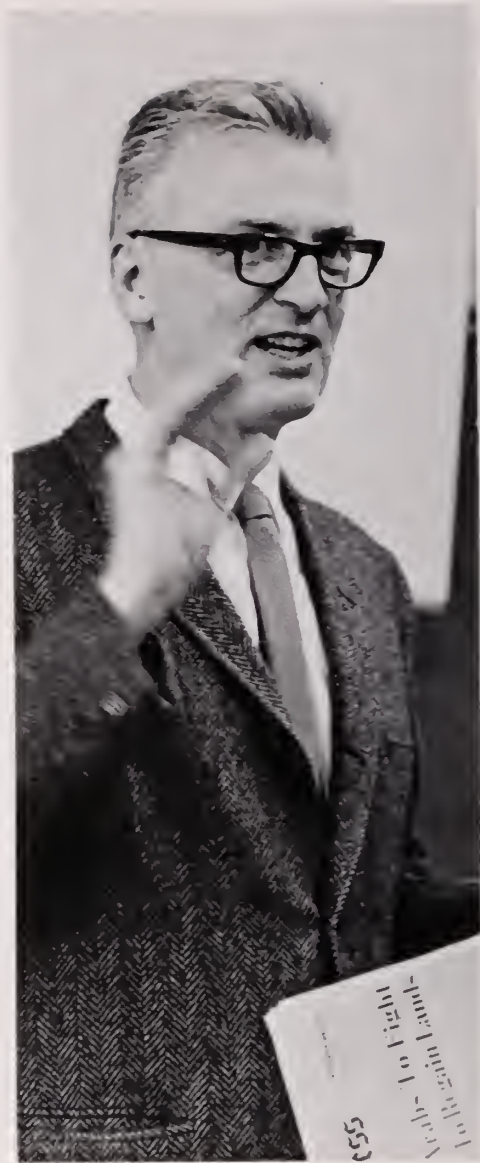

Lost in thoughts of the upcoming gubernatorial election, Mrs. Anthony's paperwork piles up mountains high.

Field trips and special study programs aided students of social studies. Juniors in the US History classes spent two days in Williamsburg formulating opinions on colonial life. Government classes traveled to Washington, D.C., visiting such places as the capitol building. Miss Olney's classes employed a new program, Dangerous Parallels, to study foreign relations. Mr. Driscoll's classes reviewed judicial case analyses along with the Judicial System. Dianne Epperson's essay won the first prize in the "Voice of Democracy" contest held in this district. Developing attitudes helpful to future homemakers was the goal of the Home Economics Department. Lessons on skills in working with children or on family economy was included with sewing and cooking. The course took on a skill-building angle. Across the hall buzzing saws and pounding hammers proved hard work in the shops. Boys made articles of wood and metal or learned to design plans for houses. These teachers introduced students to the world of industry by teaching them to work with their hands and machines in the various skills.

Communication between teacher and students, although not always apparent in the garbled questions and hesitant answers, prevailed in the language classes. One Spanish class had three teachers in the same year, and the fourth year Spanish class had only two students. A broken language lab did not help the situation. Even with these problems, the students continued to learn to communicate in their languages.

UPTOWN, NEWPORT NEWS

NEWPORT NEWS. WE'VE LAUNCHED MORE THAN 500 SHIPS.

But wait 'til you see our encore. When we started out in 1886, we were just a small ship repair yard. We named the company Newport News. Because we were proud to be doing business here.

Today we're the largest shipyard in the world. And we're still proud to call ourselves Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. Because a lot of the people who helped put us where we are today come from right here on the Virginia Peninsula.

With their help, Newport News has become an important asset to our community, our state and our nation.

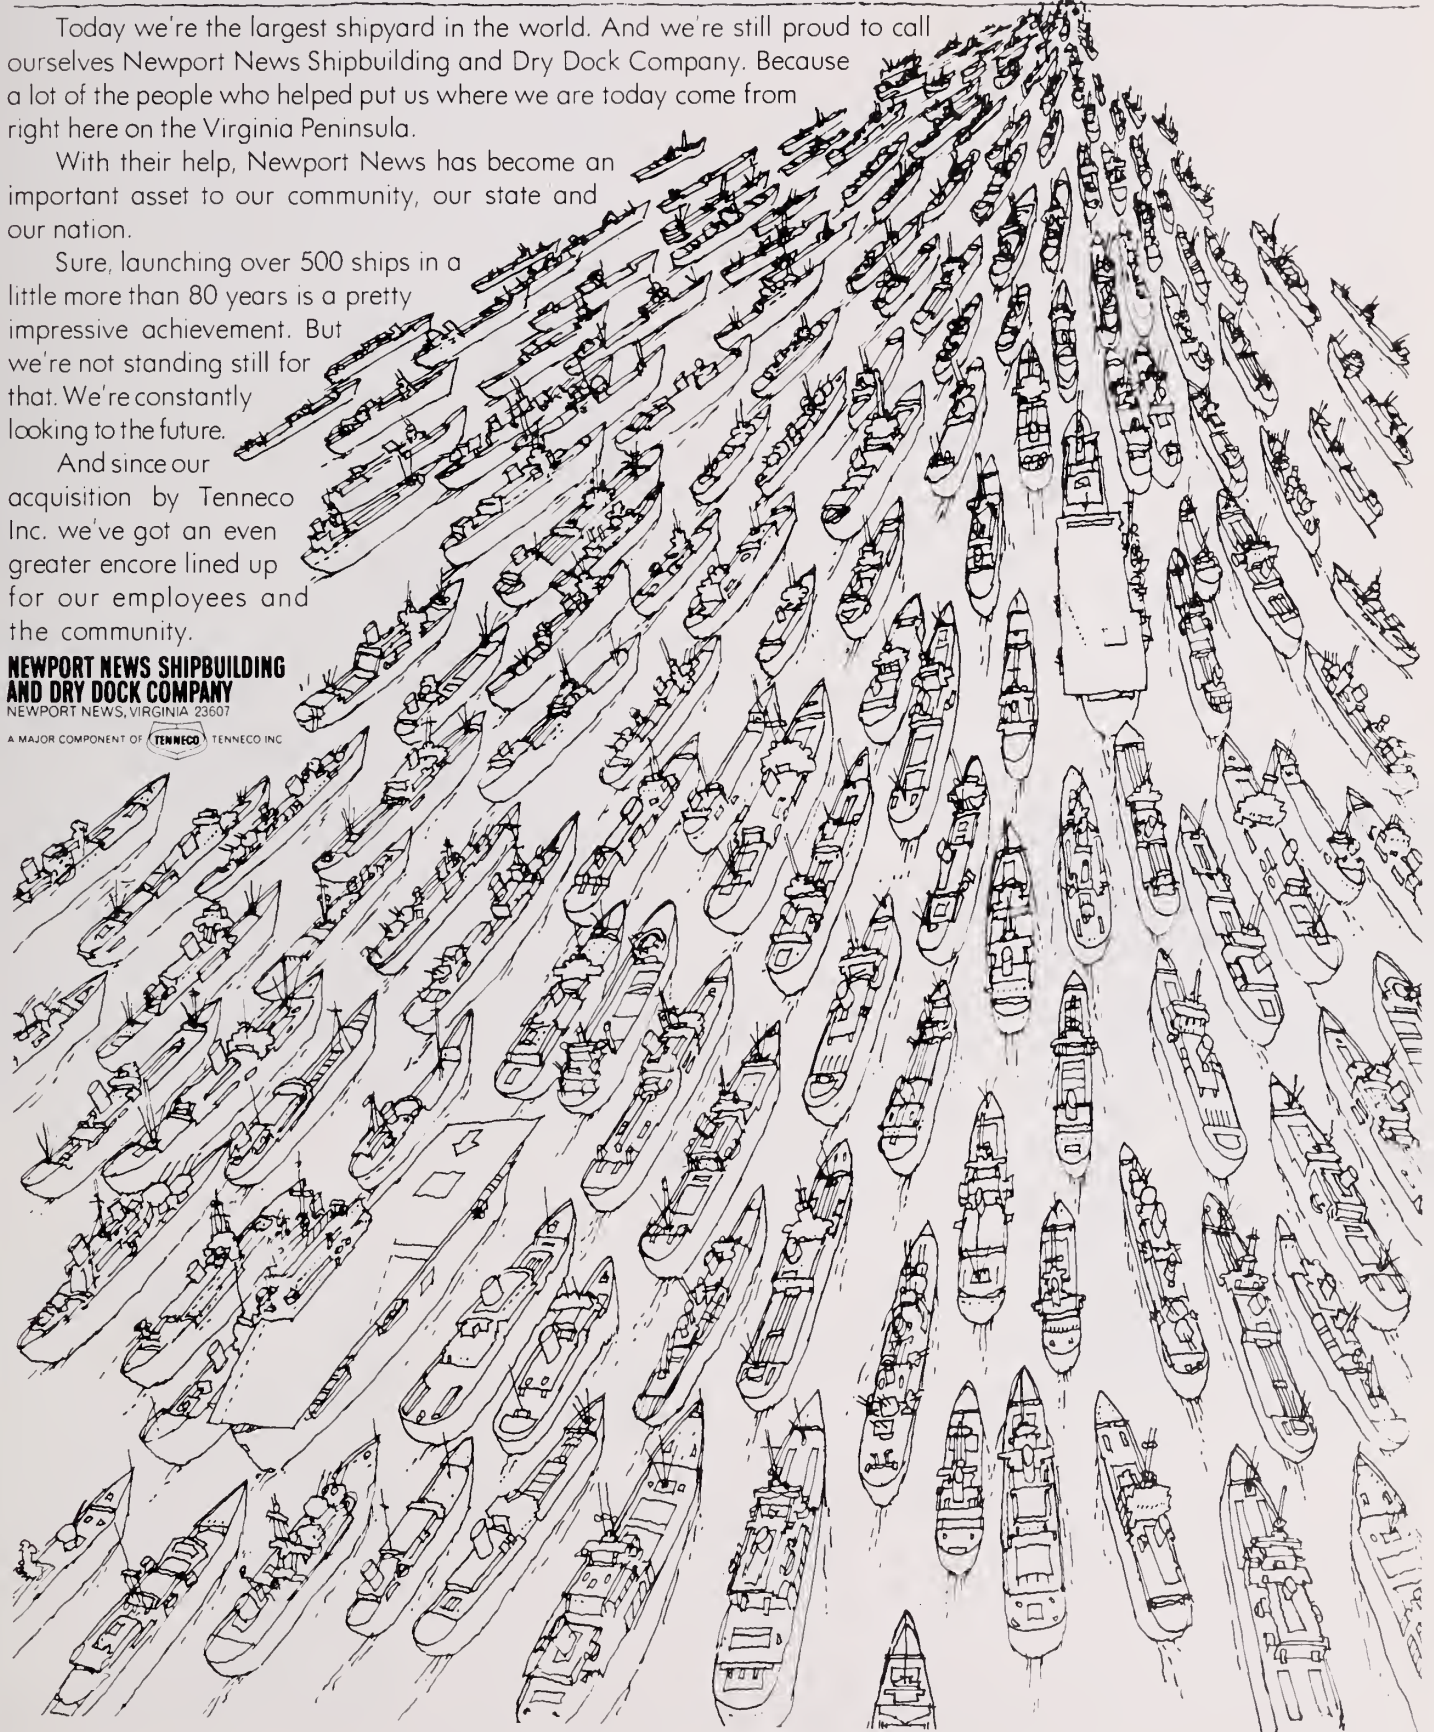

Sure, launching over 500 ships in a little more than 80 years is a pretty impressive achievement. But we're not standing still for that. We're constantly looking to the future.

And since our acquisition by Tenneco Inc. we've got an even greater encore lined up for our employees and the community.
